Historical Note

The bishops of the United States made the decision to found The Catholic University of America on December 2, 1884. A month later, during the first meeting of the committee to which the bishops had delegated the work of organization, the University was named. Pope Leo XIII, who was a source of encouragement from the beginning, gave formal approbation to the project on April 10, 1887. Immediately thereafter, civil incorporation in the District of Columbia was obtained. Later in the year, the Pope named John Joseph Keane, bishop of Richmond, to be the first rector. Papal approval of the first constitution of the University was given on March 7, 1889, and the University was opened on the following November 13.

At the time, the modern American university was still in its infancy. The Johns Hopkins University in 1876 had been the first in the country to dedicate itself not only to the preservation of learning and teaching, as American institutions had been doing since the foundation of Harvard College on an English model in 1636, but also to the advancement of knowledge through research in the manner of the Prussian universities of the 19th century. Engagement in research and the training of graduate students to carry it out were to become the hallmarks of university status. By developing in this pattern, The Catholic University of America became the principal channel through which the modern university movement entered the American Catholic community. In 1900, Catholic University was among the 14 institutions offering instruction for the doctorate that formed the Association of American Universities.

Only in 1904 were undergraduate programs added to the offerings of the University, although some undergraduate instruction had been offered earlier to candidates for graduate and professional degrees. Undergraduate students now comprise more than 50% of the annual enrollment.

Today, the University includes 12 schools, all of which offer graduate and/or professional degrees. Ten schools — architecture and planning; arts and sciences; business; engineering; music, drama, and art; nursing; philosophy; professional studies; social service; and theology and religious studies — award undergraduate degrees. Catholic University is the only American university with ecclesiastical faculties granting canonical degrees in canon law, philosophy, and theology.

Catholic University's academic offerings are organized in accord with the official mission statement of the University approved by the Board of Trustees on December 12, 2006:

As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation, and the world.

Citations for Honorary Degrees

Thaddeus F. Aubry Jr., B.A. 1966
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa

The motto for The Catholic University of America is “Deus Lux Mea Est,” “God is my light.” Through his lifelong commitment championing access to education, Thaddeus F. Aubry Jr. has lit the way for countless students at the University and beyond.

Aubry’s faith and love of learning was formed by his Catholic high school teachers. He attended Catholic University at the height of the Civil Rights Movement and experienced firsthand the struggles many Black students faced to pursue their dream of higher education. After graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in English literature in 1966, he and fellow honorary degree recipient Leon LeBuffe, worked with University administration to form an innovative scholarship and academic support initiative to provide a better pathway for success for promising minority students from Washington, D.C., area schools.

Aubry served as founding director of the Partnership Program, which recruited about 30 students a year over the next decade. Most, if not all, were first-generation college students. He tirelessly campaigned for funding and taught at a two-monthlong preparatory program for the students.

This commencement marks 50 years since the first Partnership Program students graduated. Among their number was Ronny Lancaster, B.A. 1973, who said he is “very grateful the University is recognizing the 50th anniversary of this class ... by honoring these great men.”

“It is hard to find words to express the contributions these two men made ... and how they helped us all navigate and graduate from the University to lead successful professional lives,” said Lancaster. He said the program produced leaders in practically every profession who have made significant contributions to their communities and the nation, including working at senior levels in U.S. presidential administrations and Fortune 500 companies.

Lancaster and Joe Fischer, B.A. 1975, worked with the University to create the Thaddeus F. Aubry Jr. and Leon A. LeBuffe Scholarship Fund in honor of their beloved mentors. Since 2016, 25 students have received the scholarship. “They played a pivotal role in us being here, and we are proud to continue building on what they started,” said Lancaster.

The success of the Partnership Program was just the start of Aubry’s commitment to loving his neighbor. Aubry has dedicated his life to service and education of at-risk and vulnerable youth, including working to improve special education teacher training, mental health awareness, and the administration of the Virginia juvenile justice system.

Aubry advanced the University’s mission to evangelize through education by working to create a more inclusive student body and curriculum reflecting the universality of the Catholic Church. He advocated for and taught Black literature courses at the University alongside famed advocate for African American expressions of the faith, Servant of God Sister Thea Bowman, M.A. 1969, Ph.D. 1972, whose cause for canonization was opened in 2018. As she once said, “We each have a light and God didn’t give us that light to sit on.” Throughout his lifetime of service, Aubry’s trailblazing light has shone bright.

For a lifetime of teaching, leadership, and service demonstrating exceptional faith in the potential of others, The Catholic University of America is proud to bestow upon Thaddeus F. Aubry Jr. the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Marguerite Donia Harmon, M.S.
Doctor of Philosophy in Social Work, honoris causa

In the Gospel of Matthew, Jesus imparted heavenly guidance to his disciples saying, “Amen, I say to you, whatever you did for one of the least brothers of mine, you did for me.”

Marguerite (Peg) Harmon has heeded those words and put them into action throughout her life.

Harmon has dedicated her professional career to the benefit of the vulnerable in the American southwest, advocating for the dignity of migrants, people with disabilities, the sick, and the impoverished. Working in a border state, Harmon has led the Catholic Church’s efforts to welcome the stranger as Jesus also instructed.

She is the former CEO of the Catholic Community Services of Southern Arizona (CCS), where she served 45 years in various roles. After graduating from the University of Pittsburgh with a Bachelor of Science in psychology, Harmon earned a Master of Science in rehabilitation science from the University of Arizona in 1976.

Harmon began her career with CCS as an intern in the Community Outreach Program for the Deaf, eventually becoming the program director in 1977. By 1980, the program had become its own agency within CCS, and Harmon was its executive director. In 1999, Harmon became chief executive officer of CCS.

Under Harmon’s leadership, CCS flourished, providing social services for children, adults, families, and the community throughout southern Arizona and in New Mexico. She was instrumental in developing and implementing new programs and services and guided CCS through many challenges, including the COVID-19 pandemic. She also led several successful capital campaigns, including the addition of the Angels Wing in the St. Elizabeth Health Center and the Medical Respite Center.

Harmon’s former colleagues have called her contributions to the CCS “immeasurable.” They speak of her “gifts of kindness, sincerity, warmth, and vision.” Bishop Edward Weisenburger, bishop of the Diocese of Tucson, has pointed to Harmon’s ability to “ground every task or project she led in her love of Jesus Christ.”

Harmon’s leadership and dedication have been recognized by many. She has served on the board of directors for Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Inc., the Governor’s Arizona Serves Commission, and the regional council of Arizona First Things First. In January 2011, Harmon received the Catholic Charities USA “Keep the Dream Alive” Award, which honors individuals who inspire the nation to keep the dream of Martin Luther King Jr. alive through their work.

Harmon’s long career at CCS has been marked by dedication, generosity, and commitment to helping others in great need. Harmon has given her life to serving those in greatest need. Her contributions will endure and inspire others to follow in her footsteps and help bring light to the world.

For her dedication to the Church’s social teaching and her life of service to others, The Catholic University of America is proud to bestow upon Marguerite (Peg) Harmon the degree Doctor of Philosophy in Social Work, honoris causa.

Leon A. LeBuffe, B.A. 1966, Ph.D. 1973
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa

As Pope Francis said in an address on Oct. 31, 2014, “Unity does not imply uniformity; it does not necessarily mean doing everything together or thinking in the same way. Nor does it signify a loss of identity. Unity in diversity is actually the opposite: It involves the joyful recognition and acceptance of the various gifts. ... It means knowing how to listen, to accept differences, and having the freedom to think differently and express oneself with complete respect toward the other who is my brother or sister.”

Leon LeBuffe has devoted his life’s work to “unity in diversity” by spearheading impactful programs aimed at expanding educational opportunities to marginalized groups.

Within just a few years of graduating from The Catholic University of America in 1966 with a Bachelor of Arts in history, LeBuffe was appointed as assistant dean of admissions for special projects to establish an outreach and scholarship program for local Black high school seniors who may not have been able to attend college. Most, if not all, of these students were the first generation of their families to ever attend college.

The Partnership Program, as it was named, was established in 1969 and went on to accept hundreds of scholars. LeBuffe noted at the time that the goal of the program was simply to place students in undergraduate programs and help them to succeed. At the outset, he recognized that the program should be led by a Black director. He also acknowledged that the program needed the engagement of Black students already enrolled at the University.

Thaddeus Aubry Jr., an experienced teacher and one of the Catholic University’s few Black alumni at the time, was named director of the Partnership Program. Through this program, LeBuffe believed that Catholic University could fulfill its obligation to the Washington, D.C., community and could learn of the community from its people.

LeBuffe went on to earn a Doctor of Philosophy in 1973 at Catholic University.

Later, LeBuffe served as professor of history and dean of the College of Continuing Education at Gallaudet University, the liberal arts university for deaf and hard of hearing students in Washington, D.C. He initiated the first continuing education and summer school program called Learning Vacation, which was an immersive experience for both deaf students and their family members to provide them with resources and learning opportunities surrounding the deaf experience. The program addressed a significant need at the university at the time as 80% of deaf students had parents who were not deaf.

His dedication to educational equity has remained steadfast throughout his career and can be felt on Catholic University’s campus today. In honor of his legacy, the University established the Thaddeus F. Aubry and Leon A. LeBuffe Endowment to support members of marginalized communities in their educational pursuits. Students are selected based upon their active participation in a student service or advocacy organization, financial need, and dedication to academics.

For his exceptional contributions to educational diversity, The Catholic University of America is proud to bestow upon Leon A. LeBuffe the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Kathryn Jean Lopez, B.A. 1997
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa

Pope Francis has referred to the work of journalists as a “mission” rather than a “job.” In his message for the 2018 World Communications Day, the Pope said, “Ensuring the accuracy of sources and protecting communication are real means of promoting goodness, generating trust, and opening the way to communion and peace.”

Kathryn Jean Lopez, a philosophy and politics alumna from The Catholic University of America, contributes to this mission by using her journalistic skills to write about significant and challenging topics in the Church and the world, including bioethics, religion, feminism, education, and politics.

A nationally syndicated columnist and award-winning opinion journalist, Lopez’s work has been featured in The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Times, The National Catholic Register and The New York Press, among other publications.

Lopez is a senior fellow at the National Review Institute, where she heads the Center for Religion, Culture, and Civil Society, and is an editor-at-large of the National Review magazine. She is a media fellow at the Religious Freedom Institute and is author of the book, A Year With the Mystics: Visionary Wisdom for Daily Living. Lopez, a frequent speaker at universities, has also appeared on CNN, Fox News, MSNBC, and Oxygen. She has regular “Things that Caught My Eye” slots on The Catholic Channel on Sirius XM radio.

Lopez serves as the chair of Cardinal Timothy Dolan’s Pro-Life Commission in New York, where she hosts conversations on life, including foster care and adoption. Lopez also is on the board of various organizations, including the Shrine of the North American Martyrs, Witness to Love, Hard as Nails Ministries, and she serves on the Board of Regents at the University of Mary. Additionally, she is a fellow at Catholic University’s Institute for Human Ecology.

In recognition of her achievements, Lopez received the National Council for Adoption’s Excellence in Adoption Media Award. She also received the Washington Women in Journalism Award for Outstanding Journalism in the Periodic Press in CQ Roll Call for her writings on genocide against Christians in the Middle East and religious persecution.

At the opening Mass of the Year of Faith in 2012, Pope Benedict XVI presented Lopez with a message to women throughout the world. The message repeated a 1965 address of Pope Paul VI to women at the closing of the Second Vatican Council. In it, the Pope said, “Women of the entire universe, whether Christian or non-believing, you to whom life is entrusted at this grave moment in history, it is for you to save the peace of the world.”

Lopez carries out this call to women with courage, zeal, and compassion. She exemplifies Christ’s teaching to engage with impoverished people while also engaging at a high level on behalf of the issues and concerns most important to contemporary society and the Church.

For her Christian witness in the public square and her commitment to the truth, The Catholic University of America is proud to bestow upon Kathryn Jean Lopez the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Arthur C. Brooks, Ph.D.
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa

St. Ignatius of Loyola said, “Love is shown more by deeds than by words.” For philosopher, entrepreneur, and professor Arthur C. Brooks, the secret to happiness is found in serving others, faith, family, and friends, not in chasing material success.

Brooks has dedicated himself to promoting human happiness and improving the well-being of others. Through his writing, public speaking, and teaching, Brooks has been highly effective in enhancing the quality of life for people around the world.

He began his career as a classical French hornist touring and recording in the United States and Spain. In his late 20s, Brooks returned to school, earning a Bachelor of Arts in economics from Thomas Edison State University while still performing. He then earned a Master of Arts in economics from Florida Atlantic University.

At 31, he left his music career and earned a Master of Philosophy and a Doctor of Philosophy in public policy analysis from the Rand Graduate School while simultaneously working as an analyst for the Rand Corporation’s Project Air Force, analyzing military operations research.

Brooks then spent the next 10 years teaching economics and nonprofit management as a university professor, primarily at Syracuse University. During this decade, he published over 60 peer-reviewed articles and several books, including the textbook, Social Entrepreneurship, published in 2008.

From 2009 to 2019, Brooks served as the 11th president and Beth and Ravenel Curry Chair in Free Enterprise for the American Enterprise Institute (AEI). During his time there, he was selected as one of Fortune Magazine’s “50 World’s Greatest Leaders” and was awarded seven honorary doctorates.

Brooks displayed his commitment to the prosperity of AEI when he announced his resignation in 2018, stating, “Social enterprises generally thrive best when chief executives don’t stay much longer than a decade. ... It’s important to refresh the organizational vision periodically and avoid becoming uniquely associated with one person.”

Soon after, Brooks returned to academia, teaching at the Harvard Kennedy School and the Harvard Business School. His Leadership and Happiness course at Harvard has gained immense popularity and media attention.

Brooks is the author of 12 books, including the 2022 New York Times bestseller From Strength to Strength: Finding Happiness, Success, and Deep Purpose in the Second Half of Life. The 2019 documentary, The Pursuit, followed Brooks around the world in his search for answers to issues of global poverty.

For his serious scholarship, good humor, and deep faith, The Catholic University of America is proud to bestow upon Arthur C. Brooks, the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Academic Costume

The history of academic dress reaches back to the 13th century. Academic gowns were prescribed to avoid excess in apparel, although it is believed that gowns were also worn for warmth. Whether the origin of academic dress is ecclesiastical or civilian has never been settled.

The code of academic dress in the United States was adopted in 1895. The gown commonly worn for the bachelor's degree has pointed sleeves (with a slit for the arm). It is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist.

The gown for the doctoral degree has bell-shaped open sleeves. All gowns are black with no trimming, except the doctoral, which is trimmed with velvet. The master's and doctoral gowns are so designed that they may be worn open or closed.

Hoods are three feet long for the bachelor's, three and one-half feet for the master's, and four feet for the doctoral degrees. The hood is lined with colors of the institution — gold and white for The Catholic University of America — and is trimmed with the color associated with the academic field of specialization, as follows:

Architecture – Blue Violet
Arts, Letters, and Humanities – White
Business – Drab
Canon Law – Scarlet
Economics – Copper
Education – Light Blue
Engineering – Orange
Fine Arts – Brown
Law – Purple
Library Science – Lemon Yellow
Music – Pink
Nursing – Apricot
Philosophy – Dark Blue
Science – Golden Yellow
Social Work – Citron
Theology – Scarlet

Alma Mater

Alma Mater, thee we hail;
Guardian of truth.
Ours the love that cannot fail,
Sunshine of youth.
Raise thy towers to the skies;
Gifted from above;
Be the light that never dies,
Haven of love.

(Refrain)

Alma Mater, we behold thee;
Sons and daughters true.
Days of sunshine e'er enfold thee, CU, CU.
